

This course aims to introduce the student to fundamental concepts of software documentation, the task orientation process and how you break the project to small tasks and how to construct a task list from a project. This course also explain the forms of software documentation such Tutorials, procedures and references. Finally the course introduces the student to the process of software documentation, from user analysis thru editing and fine tuning.