

Zarqa University
Faculty of Educational Science
Department of Library and Information Science

No. 0512350

Information Systems

(3 c.h)

This course is intended to introduce students to the concepts of information systems (IS). Main types, characteristics, requirements and functions, information analysis and design for libraries and information centers. Planning, application and evaluation of systems. Documentation of the system. Databases and network. Evaluation of systems according to international standards. Feasibility studies for the purpose of system design. Practical training in the field.