

Zarqa University
Faculty of Educational Science
Department of Library and Information Science

No. 0512131

Information Resources

3 C.H.

This course is intended to introduce students to the concepts of information resources. The importance of information resources as media for information transfer.. Types and forms of information resources including manuscripts, books, reference sources, serials, governmental publications, audio-visual materials, electronic resource and. characteristics of each type, Criteria for evaluation. Usage of information resources, equipment required for the use of these resources. Institutions involved in the production and distribution of information resources.